The Bill Appropriating $540,000 for Improving the Counts and the Bill Approprinting $100,000 to Promote Agriculture Were the Ones Vetoed-Important

Bills Affeeting New York City Signed. ALBANY, May 13.-Gov. Flower vetoed two important bills to-day, one appropriating $540,000 for increasing the lockage capacity of the Eric Canal, and Improving the Eric and other canals, and one appropriating $100,-000 for various small agricultural societies to be used as premiums. In his veto of the Canal bill the Governor says: This bill is so constructed that the Executive cannot approve some of the items of appropriation and disap prove others, but must sign or veto as a whole the total amount of the appropriation, namely, $540,000, I regret this circumstance, for I am informed that certain anal improvements authorized by the bill are quite necessary and should not be delayed. This is said to be true especially in the case of proposed repairs upon the upper and lower Mohawk aqueducts, the Schoharie Creek aqueduct, and upon the dam at Cohosa. I am informed, however, that as to the first three there are available funds which can be used for the purpose, if necessary, during the current year, while the urgency of the repairs upon the dam at Cohnes is not apparent since the Legislature, by chapter 1.5 of the laws of the present year, has appropriated $2,000 for the purpose of ascertaining before the wast legislative session of accertaining before the most jegislative assion whether it is advisable to built a new dam at this point to replace the one upon which it is now proposed to expend considerable money in retears.

The expenditure directed for the other objects of the bil, white doubtless in the interest of canal improvement, is by no means essential to the immediate good service of the Native waterway. * * * * For a sindenance and improvements to the canals there has already been appropriated in system during the present system during the present system during the present system of a million dollars—quite sufficient for sit ordinary purposes and enough to maintain the canal system during the present system of any appropriate of the specific system of the first present system of a property intended to be secured by this bill can be postponed without injury to public interests. During the new year, ending with Isia there had been appropriated for this purpose a none upound of $2.00.080, and it must be confessed the results were not very satisfactory, for the tomage of the canals was actually less in Isia than in Isia. Indeed, the large upon the present of money which have been expended or casal improvements during than years canals now do not carry one built of their capacity. Their tomings for the decade ending with Isia averaged only 5,246,080 tous per year, in spite of the fact that the canals had been made free which was but a very slight increase over the record for the privious decade, when to iss were required, and whether it is advisable to build a new dam at this balf of their capacity. Their tomage for the decade solding with 1800 averaged only 5,240,883 toms per year, in spite of the fact that the camais had been made free, which was but a very slight increase over the record for the previous docade, when toils were required, and actually less than the tomage for the decade ending with the year 1870. These figures suggest at least increase of the record of the previous docades and the reasonable assurance of advantage should propose the imposition of every new burden upon the propose. I would respectfully suggest, also, that in the future the various appropriations for the canals be placed in one bill as far as possible, so that the people may know more precisely the rotal amount expended for this purpose, and that the terms be as arranged that each one may be judged separately upon its merits, so that a detable appropriation may not fail because merged with universitable appropriations.

In his year of the bill to promote agriculture.

In his veto of the bill to promote agriculture, household manufactures, encourage the raising of poultry, and to improve the breed of took in this State, and making an appropriation, the Governor says:

household manufactures, encourage the raising of poulitry, and to improve the breed of stock in this State, and making an appropriation, the Governor says:

This hill is desapproved for the reason that its provisions, in my judement, fail to supply that kind of encouragement which the articultural interests of the Rais are most in need of. The $100,000 appropriated is designed to be distributed among agricultural societies in premiums on farm products, agricultural machinery and implements, and household manufactures. Already during the present year the legislature has appropriated over $40,000 for a similar purpose in three separate bills, besides appropriating nearly $1.75,000 additional for dairy interests, farmers, institutes, experimental work in agriculture, &c. The total appropriation of public money for the promotion of agricultural interests will be large this year, without the expenditure proposed by this bill, and, inasmuch as State taxation fails mort heavily upon the farmers, they particularly are interested in demanding that every dollar of appropriation shall be proposed to the agricultural communities of the State is that which, recognizing the changed conditions prevailing now and created by the opening up of an immense farming territory in the West, endeavors to discourage our farmers from the vain attempt to compete with their Western rivels in the production of wheat and corn and other cereals, and attimulates them to new lines of agricultural efforts more sailed to existing conditions and to present demands of the world in the world take advantage of it, by entirely and the produce, the demand for which is constantly increasing, and in the saie of which there cannot be damperous competition from the farmers of neighboring streams, and in the saie of which there cannot be damperous competition from the farmers of neighboring streams, and in the saie of which there cannot be damperous competitions and the produce, the demand for which is constantly increasing, and in the saie of which there c

Brief Reviews of Important and Interesting New Publications.

The narrative is put in the mouth of a Zulu, one of the actors in the scenes described, and t suffers from the circumstance. It runs in a droning rhythm, and is surcharged with a nifalutin and childish rhetoric that nobody but a hurried and conscienceless story teller ever employed. The lily of the title is a copper-colored girl who loves Umslopogans, and who gets wedged into a cave and dies. But there is not much about her. The tale is chiefly concerned with slaughter, of which there is enough to depopulate the entire African continent; but it is perfunctory and quite uninteresting slaugh-ter. The history of "Bill Bidden, Trapper," in the old and lovely dime novel series, is a gem of modesty, verisimilitude, and artistic finish in comparison with "Nada, the Lily." The only piece of imagination in this new story that could have cost the author any pains whatever is concerned with a pack of spirit wolves that follow Umslopogaas and another young warrior to battle, and even this lupine novelty labors under the disadvantage of being ridiculous. The tate is almost wholly without surprises. It is cheap and plotless, Its copious slaughter does not redeem it. To see the butchers at work upon the pigs in Chiengo would be forty times as exciting

The third volume of Mr. Hubert Howe Bancroft's "Chronicles of the Builders of the Com-monwealth" is published by the History Company, San Francisco. This volume treats of agriculture as the handmaid of mining, and is also biographical. It glances at the aboriginal agriculturists, considers irrigation, reviews the agriculture of Mexico and Central America, treats of stock raising and real estato transactions, and branches out in the many directions suggested by the general subject of agriculture. Its biographies single subject of agriculture. Its biographies single out characters who stood conspicuously for one thing and another notable in the development of California and the Pacific slope. They consider men and women and families. We learn what Richard Gird did at mining and railroad building, what Daniel Freeman did at experimental farming, how Augustus T. Hatch became a "Napoleon in the acquisition of acres," what Cyrus H. McCormick did as an inventor and builder or agricultural machinery, and so on. The biography is orderly, clear, and of great detail. It is embellished with many portraits.

Works of Percy Bysshe Shelley," compiled and arranged by Mr. F. S. Ellis (Bernard Quaritch, London), represents the labor of six years, and is a work of astenishing detail and thoroughness. It almosts classify every word found in the poems, according to its signification, and the purpose seems to have been fully accomplished. The book is a quarto volume of up ward of 800 pages of finely printed matter. The author must indeed have been moved by an exceptional love of the poetry of Shelley, as he says he was, to have found in a work like this only a pleasure, and a pleasure so absorbing as to make the six years spent in it seem as he further says, only a day. Mr. Ellis be Heyes that "there is but a very limited number of people in the world who care for Shelley's poetry." He believes this, because he has "never met with a single person outside the circle of professed students of it who could lay claim to having read more than two or three of his most celebrated lyries." There is some reason to believe that Shelley is a poet who is more talked about than read, but Mr. Ellis has shown a particular attention which will atone for a great deal of general neglect.

"The Seven Ages of the World; or, From Chaos to Man," a pamphlet containing the substance of Mr. Garrett P. Serviss's current lecture at the Carnegie Music Hall, is such a compact, clear, readable presentation of a selentific subject as Mr. John Fiske might have written. It is science made interesting. It sets forth what is supposed and known regarding the birth and development of the earth, outlining the nebular theory of La Place and the history of the geological ages; and it does this so competently, in a fashion so comprehensible and so agreeable, that it is a pleasure to recommend it (Urania Com-

A very interesting story for young people will be found in "Flying Hill Farm," by Sophie Swett (Harper & Brothers). It is full of incident, and easily, skilfully, and charmingly written, proving again the sense which this writer has of the sort of material in fiction which young people like and her understanding of the way to present it. The tale is abundantly illustrated. From the same publishers we have also a new and revised edition of William Black's early and very successful novel, "In Silk Attire."

"Slaves of the Sawdust," by Amyo Reade (Hovendon Company), is a novel submitting that the children who perform in the circus and like exhibitions are ill treated. They may be, and if they are there is additional reason why they should not have such a story as this written about them. Certainly it is not essential that they should be benefited through the preliminary process of wearying the novelreading public.

BY JULIEN GORDON. MARIONETTES.

Novel. By JULIEN GORDON, author of "A Diplomat's Diarr." "Vampires." "A Puritan Pagan." &c., &c. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth, $1.00 Julien Gordon (Mrs. Van Rensselser Cruger) has in "Marioneties" written the strongest novel that has yet come from her pen. Like her other stories, its interest is contemporaneous and human. The scene is inid on the Long Island coast and shifts for a moment to Paris, then back to New York. The characters, though few. are well limined. Whether they are portraits from the life or not is for the reader to say, but in either case if must be pronounced a story of absorbing interest.

THE FATE OF FENELLA.

By Helen Mathers, Justin H. McCarthy, M. P., Frances Eleanor Trollope, A. Conan Doyle, May Crommelin. F. C. Phillips, "Rita," Joseph Hatton, Mrs. Lovett Cameron, Bran Stoker. Florence Marryat, Frank Danby, Mrs. Edward Kennard, Richard Dowling, Mrs. Hungerford, Arthur a' Beckett, Jean Middlemass, Clement Scott, Clo. Graves, H. W. Lucy, Adeline Sergeant, G. Manville "Tasma," and F. Anstoy. 1 vol.

12mo, cloth, unique binding, $1.00. Each chapter in this volume was written by a differ ent author without any consultation regarding the de-velopment of the plot. That a story written by twen-ty-four writers of as widely different styles as those here represented should be so well rounded and so nat ural in its progress is a matter of no small wonder, and "The Fate of Fenelia" deserves a conspicuous place among the successes as well as among the curiosities

HELEN BRENT, M. D.

A Social Study. 1 vol., 12mo, cloth. Uniform with "Shall Girls Propose?" Dainty binding, gilt top, 75 cents.

A book that is likely to attract more than ordinary attention, touching as it does upon a subject of vital importance in modern life. The author, although still young, has taken a leading part in the cause of the higher education for women. While, however, " Helen Brent, M. D.," is a "story with a purpose," it richly de-

By WILLIAM C. HUDSON (Barclay North), author of the "Diamond Button," "Jack Gordon, Knight Errant," "The Man with a Thumb," &c. 12mo. cloth, 75 cents; paper, 50 cents. This is one of Mr. Hudson's clever detective storiesfull of action and exciting incident. The plot is most ingenious, and is worked out in entirely new lines. Mr Hudson never repeats himself, but in this story he scarcely suggests himself.

SHORT STORIES.

Van Bibber and Others.

Stories. By RICHARD HARDING DAvis. With Illustrations. Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1.00.

One of the most delightful of recent creations in fiction is Mr. Davis's " Van Bibber." He is, in fact, altogether charming and unique.-Boston Traveller. All of these contes have the vigor, erispness, and dramatic forcefulness of their author's best work. It is impossible to read any of these bits of fletion without a thrill of admiration.—Newark Advertiser.

A Capillary Crime,

And Other Stories. By F. D. MILLET. Illustrations. Post 8vo. Cloth, Ornamental, $1.25.

All the sketches are well executed, and nearly all of them have a flavor, more or less strongly defined, of the supernatural or its border land .- N. Y. Tribune. There is a Bohemian flavor in these stories, but they are in every respect clever and original. . . . Mr. Millet's style is excellent. His stories are wonderfully entertaining, and are in every sense delightful.-Boston Traveller.

Tales of a Time and Place.

By GRACE KING. Post 8vo, Cloth,

Ornamental, $1.25. Strong in dramatic interest, brilliant in the telling, remarkably good in their character drawing, and vivid in effect. The author's literary style is excellent, and she has a special talent for the picturesque in lescription. Her book may be heartily praised and as cordially recommended to readers whose tastes lean toward the nataral in fiction and the artistic in workmanship .- Saturday Evening Gazette, Boston. The purity and simplicity of Miss King's style is beyond all praise.-Philadelphia

Love Letters.

Love Letters of a Worldly Woman. By Mrs. W. K. CLIFFORD, Author of "Mrs. Keith's Crime," etc. 16mo, Cloth, Ornamental, Uncut Edges and Gilt Top, $1.25.

In short analytical stories of this kind Mrs. Clifford has come to take a unique position in England. In the delicate, ingenious, forcible use of language, to express the results of an unusual range of observation, she stands to our literature as De Maupassant and Bourget stand to the literature of France.-Black and White-

A Group of Noble Dames. By THOMAS HARDY, Author of "Tess of the D'Urbervilles, " "Wessex .Folk," "The Woodlanders," &c. Illustrated. Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1.25; paper, 75 cents. They are marked by a fascinating grace of literary style, they are true to nature, and the hand of a master in fiction is apparent in them all. They are delightful reading, and are in their author's best and finest vein .- Saturday Evening Gazette.

Boston. Everything in his volume is fresh and characteristic. . . The stories are all pleasant reading. Each has something original in the way of a leading idea and a plot of sufficient interest, and each shows in its narration the concealed art of the born story teller .- Athenaum, London.

Flute and Violin, And Other Kentucky Tales and Romances. By JAMES LANE ALLEN. With Illustrations. Post

8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1 50. A careful perusal of the six tales here printed reveals and emphasizes a rare talent and a power in romantic fiction, which are as rare as they are acceptable. . . . Our native fiction can show nothing finer in its way than these beautiful Kentucky stories, which are all the better for having a Southern flavor and picturing an ideal side of Southern life .- Hartford Courant.

Iduna, and Other Stories. By George A. Hibbard. Post 8vo, Cloth, Ornamental, $1.00; Paper, 50 cents.

To readers of refined taste the book is certain to give positive and unalloyed pleasure.—Boston Beacon. Remarkable for originality of conception and artistic grace in the telling. The opening sketch, the name of which appears on the title page of the book, has a weirdness of effect that is suggestive of Poo .- Saturday Evening Gazette, Boston. A New England Nun,

And Other Stories. By MARY E. WILKINS. 16mo, Cloth, Ornsmental, $1.25.

Always there is a freedom from commonplace, and a power to hold the interest to the close, which is owing, not to a trivial ingenuity, but to the spell which her personages east over the reader's mind as soon as they come within his ken. . . . humor, which is a marked feature of Miss Wilkins's stories, is of a pungent sort. Every story has it, and it is a savor which prevents some, that otherwise would be rather painful, from oppressing the reader unduly .- Atlantic Monthly.
